About this sample

This is an excerpt from the comprehensive Facilitator Guide. The full guide includes minute-by-minute run schedules, module facilitation guidance, and a complete section on handling difficult conversations.

The Core Philosophy

Same expectations. Different routes.

This programme does not ask teachers to lower their standards, abandon their behaviour policy, or write thirty individual lesson plans. It asks them to understand the need behind the behaviour — and respond more effectively.

The three pillars of the programme:

- 1. Practical, not theoretical — Every strategy is designed to be used in a lesson the next morning. Not after a referral. Not after a diagnosis. Now.
- 2. Behaviour policy aligned — Understanding a pupil's SEN need does not mean abandoning your behaviour policy. It means ensuring the task is accessible, the communication is clear, and the environment is regulated — so that your expectations can actually be met.
- 3. A cycle, not a one-off event — The three-phase implementation model (Awareness, Implementation, Embedding) gives schools a clear path from INSET day to lasting change.

SLT Briefing Notes

Before the INSET day, it is crucial that the Senior Leadership Team understands the goal of this training. It is not to turn every teacher into a SEN specialist. It is to equip every teacher with a baseline toolkit for inclusive teaching.
